O'Connor's Victory Over Rowland Is High Spot With Fans

BURKE'S DECISION OVER DODGE NOT VIEWED WITH FAVOR

BOVAIR MAKES "HIT"

By RALPH M. ADAMS
Launching a furious two-fisted attack in the first round, Johnny O'Connor, local pride, smashed an early T. K. O. victory over Jack Rowland, in the main bout of last Thursday's fight show. From the gong O'Connor rushed the Toronto boy, driving him around the ring until he finally nailed the "Y" boxer with a sharp left hook to the eye, splitting the lad's eye open so badly that Referee Smart called time and awarded the bout to O'Connor.

This is Johnny's second technical knockout in two starts before a home crowd. In all, he has fought but three rounds in the two fights. On this record it won't be very long before he turns pro, perhaps after he gains a little more experience.

Dubious Win For Burke

In the semi-final Tommy Burke caught a tartar in the slow-starting Harry Dodge. There was no doubt that Burke won the first two rounds easily, working out a clear margin with that knife-like left hand. In the third Dodge, always slow to warm up, started rolling and battered Burke with both hands, but Burke still did the leading, so

LORNE FERGUSON LIKED FOR HIS BRAND OF FIGHTING

FANS NUMBER 800

By JACK PEPIATT
It was a bewildered and blinded Jack Rowland, who, with blood streaming down his face, collapsed before the stinging fists of Johnny O'Connor in the first round of last Thursday's main event. Over 800 fans saw this unexpected end to a swell show. O'Connor leaped like an escaped wild-cat at the word 'go' and had downed Rowland three times in dazed succession when referee Ross Smart stopped the bout. The extent of Rowland's injuries was a streaming cut over his right eye; evidence of the quickest finish to a boxing bout here in a long time.

The rest of the bouts were tame in comparison to this main climacter. Tom Burke got the nod over Harry Dodge, a smart boxer from the Central Y.M.C.A., which the fans booed heartily. Although Tom had a slight edge in the first two rounds he was badly shaded in the fourth and fifth. Another bout with these two men would pack the house. Eddie Bovair got the cheers, but was no match for Pete Regina. His haymaker, although kicking up a breeze, had a three-foot safety zone around it throughout the fight. Eddie

SOFTBALL BEST FOR 'CANUCKS,' SAYS TEACHER

GOOD-NATURED SQUABBLING HELPS GAME, SAYS C. R. BLACKSTOCK

ASKS SPORT FOR ALL

Encouragement to the sort of sport that gives everybody a chance to play was urged by C. R. Blackstock, director of physical education at Pickering College, in a talk on sport at a town softball league banquet in the R. S. A. bugle band hall on Monday evening.

Although he is sometimes mistaken by the freshmen at Pickering College for a fellow student, Mr. Blackstock said, he used to play softball "as long as 15 or 16 years ago" in Simcoe county. "There is no time lag," said Mr. Blackstock. "This is the 100th anniversary of baseball, of which softball is an offshoot. There is, as you know, controversy as to who invented baseball."

"Our season isn't long enough for baseball. We haven't enough early spring sun for the pitchers to get their arms warmed up for the season. Softball is a much more suitable game for us."

"There was a time, in the history of man, in days when man wore skins for clothes, when a youth developed skill so that he could go out and capture meat for his dinner, and so he could defend himself."

A time came when it was necessary for youths to be trained as a team to defend themselves. A

Team-Play Needed Throughout World, Declares Mulock

SPORT FOR YOUTH MEANS GOOD CITIZENSHIP, SAYS MAYOR

HONOR BAND TEAM

"In conditions such as we are facing today, and our empire is facing, nothing is more important than team-play, not only among our own people but also among the nations of the world," Col. W. P. Mulock, M. P., for North York, told a large gathering of young men at a town league softball banquet in the R. S. A. bugle band hall on Monday evening.

"We have the knowledge that we are fighting for liberty and freedom, and to save democratic institutions to the world," said Col. Mulock.

"It's a great thing to have good backers who are interested in sport like Mr. Blackstock, Joe Vale and, last but not least, Alex. Belugin," Col. Mulock told the softballers.

"It's good to see that you can play together and still remain good friends, and also to be in good financial shape apparently at the end of the season," he declared.

President Elmo Druery, who arranged the very successful event, handed the gathering over to Alex. Eves as master of ceremonies. Mr. Eves, to say the least, carried the evening through with verve.

The Christian church ladies served a delicious dinner and had decorated the tables beautifully. Their job was unusually well done.

FIREMEN PLAN DANCE FOR FRIDAY, NOV. 10

One of the highlights of the fall season is always the Newmarket Firemen's dance. The culture is being eliminated this year to make more time for dancing.

Max Boag and his orchestra will be in attendance.

'SADDEST THING IS SEPARATION OF CHILDREN'

LETTER FROM ENGLAND TELLS OF LIFE UNDER WAR CONDITIONS

"PETROL" RATIONED

An intimate glimpse of England and England's reaction to the war is given in a letter from a relative lent to The Era by Mrs. Gordon Thompson, Newmarket.

The writer says in part: "Well, once more we are at war, and I expect you are all thinking about the same as we are. It was a great shock to hear the prime minister announce it over the radio, but I think our first reaction to the news was one of relief, to know at last the suspense was over and we now knew the worst, and looking back you could not see how it could be otherwise. We could not go on like that, just wondering when the plunge would be, so now we are all prepared, and are going to see this thing through, we hope."

"Things seem much about the same, except that everyone carries their identity card and respirator everywhere they go. Petrol has been rationed to five gallons a month, and, as we can't go far on that, most cars are laid up for the duration of the war. We certainly don't like the restrictions placed upon us, but are carrying on just the same."

"The first week cinemas, theatres and all amusements were closed and cancelled. Everything seemed topsy-turvy," (Page 6, Col. 6)

Lions Plan To Engage Kiddies Till Sandman Gets In His Work

TOWN BANDS CO-OPERATE IN PLAN TO PREVENT MISCHIEF

PROMISE "HAND-OUT"

There won't be any gates on doorsteps next Wednesday morning.

The fire-truck won't be found on the top of the Christian church steeple.

The boys' and girls' work committee of the Lions club, under the chairmanship of R. L. Pritchard, are seeing to that.

They are going to play a few pranks of their own. They will counter-attack the enemy at the several public schools (separate school children at King George school) at 7 p.m. on Tuesday evening, and later will deal with the enemy en masse at the Newmarket arena.

The town's two bands will co-operate, enticing the children from their converging point at the King George school to the arena.

At the arena there will be community singing, it is expected, with the assistance of the Citizens' band. Prizes for costumes will be awarded to the best two boys and the best two girls in each grade (grades one and two grouped).

There will also be two grand prizes for best costume. One of these cash prizes will go to a girl and one will go to a boy.

All children of public school age or less will receive a gift of apples, candles and nuts as they leave the arena to go home.

Principal H. A. Jackson is making the arrangements in the schools. Preliminary judging of the costumes will take place there.

The Mount Albert United church young men's Bible class by a majority vote elected Harold Cunningham as a candidate for the older boys' parliament in the riding of North York. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Cunningham, Mount Albert. Photo by Budd Studio.

Assisting Mr. Pritchard as members of the Lions club boys' and girls' work committee are R. L. Bong, Arthur Evans, Alex. Georgas and Dr. George Case.

HOME AND SCHOOL CLUB HEARS SPEAKER ON BEST FOODS TO EAT

Newmarket Home and School Association held its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday evening at the Stuart Scott school with a splendid attendance.

Rev. Burton Hill, the president, was in charge. After the devotional exercises, Mrs. J. C. Edwards introduced Miss Margaret Stewart, Ph. B., M. A., of the Toronto Hydro-Electric system.

Her subject, "Meal Planning for Health," was dealt with under, "the rule of six in nutrition," and "a meal-planning guide for the busy woman." To each one present recipe leaflets were distributed.

Everyone present enjoyed Miss Stewart very much. Aubrey Bailey delighted the audience with a lovely violin solo, accompanied by Mrs. Bailey at the piano. After the national anthem had been sung, a social hour was enjoyed by all present.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday evening, Nov. 28, when the guest speaker will be Ettore Mazzoleni of the Toronto Conservatory of Music. His subject will be "Music Appreciation in the School." All music-lovers should avail themselves of this

Tuesday evening's speaker, Miss Margaret Stewart, is a trained and experienced household science teacher, lecturer and dietitian, and is connected with the Hydro-Electric system as adviser on "food cookery and household lighting."

The very interesting subject of meal-planning was the topic of the evening.

Miss Stewart was born and raised on the farm and believes that much of this world's sorrows and illnesses could be averted if the people would get back to the simpler living and plainer eating.

QUEENSVILLE UNITED CHURCH MARKS 50TH YEAR IN NEW BUILDING

CELEBRATE PROGRESS

Days when Queensville had three branches of the Methodist church and a Christian church are recalled by the 50th anniversary of the erection of the present building of Queensville United church, which will be celebrated on Friday, Nov. 3.

Rev. Hugh Shannon is the present pastor, and succeeded Rev. F. W. Madden, now at Mining.

There were at one time at least three branches of the Methodist church in Queensville. First, there was the New Connection church, which was the last cobblestone house on the north side of the village. Second, there was the Episcopal Methodist church, which stood two houses south of where the present church stands. This building and the parsonage, which stood where the present building now stands, were built about 1850.

Third, the Wesleyan church stood on the fourth line on the farm formerly owned by the late Jacob Smith. Fourth, besides these three churches was the Christian church erected on the corner of Will Arnold's farm.

Each of these churches had its followers. In the New Connection church there were such names as William Turner, W. Hill, David Brecken, H. Shiles, Captain Bailey, Geo. Holborn, Joseph Fiddell, James Henry, W. Cain.

In the Episcopal church there were such names as David Peregrine, Wm. Sheppard, H. Martin, Peter (Page 3, Col. 6)

BIBLE DYING IN POPULAR POWER SAYS ONE SCHOLAR

Most of us have lost the habit—if we ever had it—of reading the Bible, yet there are still many, mostly old people, who read a chapter of the Bible each day, and there remain a few whose practice it is to read the Bible from front to back each year.

Now, it hardly needs to be said that much in the Bible can be skipped by the devout reader, and so there are today Bibles to be had which omit those portions whose reading by the ordinary layman would be a sheer waste of his time. These abbreviated Bibles are printed after the manner of other books. The numbering of the "verses" is omitted; also the marginal notes. (Here let it be said that the insertion of verse numbers was begun by one, Robert Estienne, a French printer, who used this device for the sake of easy reference in a concordance which he had planned to bring out.) Another arbitrary and irritating practice was the use of italics for certain words.

In the new readers' Bibles—intended for reading as literature—the arrangement of the text conforms to the way of printing novels, histories, poetry. All this is gain. Even so, these edited Bibles are not widely read. It is the old King James version, with all its irritations of verse para-

Dentist's Wife Uses Novel Scheme To Find Lost Dog

FAMILIAR WHISTLE, THROUGH LOUDSPEAKER, BRINGS "REX"

When a man bites a dog or an Era classified ad doesn't work, that's news. It is also news when a woman doesn't give an Era lost ad a chance but goes out with a radio car (courtesy of Stewart Beare and Joe Spillette), when the paper is still hardly off the press, and finds her dog before he has had a chance to look at The Era.

Rex, five or six-year-old Belgian police dog, disappeared from the home of Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Hewitt, Prospect St., last Tuesday evening. Mrs. Hewitt went out with the loudspeaker car on Thursday evening, whistling her familiar call through the microphone, and was soon rewarded.

Gorham St. was the first street tried, and evidently the dog heard the call as the car went east, for on the return trip, coming in Gorham St., Mrs. Hewitt

HELPS EVERYBODY

Announcement of a ten per cent wage increase at the busy plant of the Davis Leather Co. is good news for not only their employees but for all other citizens of Newmarket. In this world unhappily the good fortune of some people seems sometimes to be the bad fortune of others. Canadians seem to be benefitted when there is a poor wheat crop in the Argentine, but generally speaking increased wealth for one man will help his neighbor too. Increased wages to a large number of Newmarket's citizens will help every other citizen, for their increased spending power will mean that they will have more money to spend with the merchants, more money to spend in the improvement of their homes, more money to spend on building homes or renting homes which others build, more money to spend with the town for light, water, taxes, more money to care for the health of their families.

A General Improvement

Unfortunately, living costs are likely to go up as the war goes on, but for the present a 10 per cent increase in anyone's income is a real increase and should mean a great deal to any family. Our farmers too are getting a little increase in wages at the present time. That is what the country needs, not relief or charity, but more people getting a wage and more getting better wages. Wages are intrinsically better than benevolence.

IT WOULD SEEM

In the course of a discussion at the town council meeting last week Reeve F. A. Lundy mentioned that blueprints and information concerning the town's sewage system were all on file in Toronto in the office of the firm who act as Newmarket's engineers. No doubt this is the most convenient arrangement, or it would not be in effect, but it would seem to the average citizen that these records would be more useful here in Newmarket where they could be consulted freely and frequently as occasion arose. Or do the records belong to the engineering firm?

HITLER AND ST. HELENA

There seems to be a widespread belief (with which we would venture to agree) that one, Adolph Hitler, is merely a symptom, an unpleasant eruption thrown up on the fair cheek of Europe as evidence of unhealthy conditions in the economic blood-stream of the world. The occasional youth who offers to destroy Herr Hitler personally would not be solving the world's problems completely even if he should succeed in his object. It seems generous for us to disassociate Hitler from the German people and to say that our quarrel is with the former and not with the latter, but actually it must be the frame of mind of the German people which makes possible the rule of Hitler.

Don't Do Ourselves Justice

When we speak of destroying "Hitlerism" we must mean that we are going to destroy force as a means of settling disputes, but we can hardly do that, for we too must use force, and we too believe that our might is right. Hating Hitler and fighting "Hitlerism" simplifies our thinking a lot (or at least the writer finds it helpful), but it doesn't do our true, deep-down motives justice.

Premier Chamberlain's Fairness

Our excuse for fighting this war must be that we want a chance to put the world's affairs in order, to do a better job than we did at Versailles, to admit our own mistakes and to make the concessions to the German people to which we believe they are entitled. The Chamberlain government was ready to help Germany secure some of her legitimate objects when Hitler plunged into war, and, we believe, even then, Britain entered the war only because she had no faith that Germany would be reasonably fair in dictating a peace with Poland.

An Economic Peace

No, we believe, together with many other people today, that deep in the mind of Prime Minister Chamberlain and many other influential statesmen is the thought that the peace which follows this war must try to settle not principally political claims and problems, as did the treaty of Versailles, but economic problems. Perhaps they must now talk of the restoration of Poland and Czechoslovakia, but much that they say, and that the world press says, seems to indicate that the next Versailles will be more concerned about removing the economic barriers between nations than they will be about separating peoples and setting up additional tariff-making bodies (in President Wilson fashion).

All Lose, All Win

The days are gone when we can hope to rid the world of war by sending Napoleon to St. Helena. We must look deeper than that for the causes of war, and we must not expect that the solution will not call for sacrifices from the victorious nations in the present conflict.

THEY PREFER CASH

Fowl supper time is here. Let those who eat a dollar's worth not forget to leave the dollar with the church ladies. The Canadian Statesman at Bowmanville comments on a headline in the Peterboro Examiner: "Millbrook Church Abandons Fowl Supper Custom for Cash." Says the Statesman: "That's going to be tough on the tight-wad Christians who support their church so generously by eating a dollar meal at these church suppers for which they only pay 35 or 40 cents, with a concert thrown in for good measure."

CHANGES WILL COME

War brings with it a spirit of "It can be done," which is bound to find its way into our industrial and civil life. In times of peace thousands and thousands of men can be idle, children can be in want, young people can see their hopes blasted, and our legislatures and parliaments can do nothing about it. But in time of war there is nothing we cannot do, no debts too great for us to assume, no effort left unmade, no sacrifice too great. It is unthinkable that, when this war is over, Canada should return to its old toleration of unemployment, wasted lives, and hunger and want beside plenty. If we can organize and socialize the nation in war-time we can do it much more easily and economically in peace-time.

CLIPPER SHOPS AND ALFALFA MEN

In Stouffville a "one-time clipper-shop" becomes a flour and feed store. The Stouffville Tribune comments: "Thus will the place which ground out the town's news, when Davey Davenport conducted his shaving parlors there, be found grinding out feed for livestock. Farmers who for years went to this business place to get their 'alfalfa' cut, will now go there to purchase alfalfa seed."

PUSH AND PULL

Enlistment of Mayor David Croll of Windsor as a private is a nice gesture from a Russian-born Canadian. He is not likely to remain a private very long, however, if the department of national defence makes good in its effort to make the best use of ability available. When he is moved up into a position of responsibility some of us will say that it is "pull" but it will be the same kind of "pull" that drew him from newsboy to cabinet minister. It will be the pull of ability.

PERFECT ADVERTISEMENT FOR AN M. D.

How long is a generation? We usually think of a generation in terms of 20 or 30 years. Webster tells us that a generation is generally assumed to be 33 years, that is, three to a century. All the more surprising therefore is the record of a Midland physician, Dr. Garnet Tanner, former M. P. Dr. Tanner started to practise in Midland when he was 24 years old and in the 24 years he has since practised he has attended six generations of a single family. The eldest of this family was just one month short of 100 years when she died. He also attended her daughter, granddaughter, great-granddaughter, great-great-granddaughter, and great-great-great-grandson. The latter, the only man in the whole line of patients, was born just recently. So we have, or rather Dr. Tanner has, six generations telescoped into 24 years.

WHEAT PRICES

Any radical increase in the price of wheat is not likely to come soon. It is estimated that Canada will have substantially over 400,000,000 bushels for export to a world market that needs from Canada only about 100,000,000 bushels. It is not improbable, however, that some European countries may buy more than they need against future requirements. An increase in price of 11 cents during September, in spite of such discouraging odds to the producer, is attributed by one authority to "the risks of possible future losses of wheat through enemy action, and the possibilities of the effect on prices of future money inflations by the great nations."

Wheat Producing Honors

While Canada is the largest exporter of wheat, Canada is far from the largest producer of wheat. Russia, China, and the United States produce more than Canada. India produces about the same as Canada. France isn't far behind. Italy and Argentina come next. Australia, while ranking with Argentina, as second or third largest exporter, produces about the same size crop as Germany. Incidentally, Germany, normally an importer of wheat to a slight extent, this year has a bumper grain crop, and is offering to trade wheat to Belgium for fuel and metal products. Presumably Belgium will say so if she can find an excuse to do so.

Price Increase Probabilities

While the last war brought $2 wheat, world wheat supplies (excluding Russia and China) today are estimated at 5,370,000,000 bushels compared to 3,500,000,000 bushels in the fall of 1914. Incidentally, the United States government is making a new approach to the problem of food supplies. The plan has been in operation in New York state for some months and consists of the issue by the government of stamps to needy families to be turned in to grocers in payment for extra food supplies.

A Cause of War

The Searle Grain Company, Winnipeg, comments: "This seems to be a most worthy plan that needs extending, not only to other states than New York, but what is perhaps more important, to other nations also, for it is the opinion of some outstanding thinkers that had the nations of the world, with large surpluses of foodstuffs, been willing to have made these surpluses more easily obtainable by those countries which normally lack sufficient food for all their people, then it is highly probable that the world might still be at peace."

HE SOLD THEIR SHIRT

An amusing incident that is only half funny occurred at Fergus last week. The tale is told here as another "don't" to put on the list of your small boy. A Fergus boy was left alone at home while his parents went out. When they returned they found that he had done some business with a rag man who called. He sold a pile of winter apparel and other wooten goods to the rag man for a figure variously put at from 20 to 30 cents.

The Common Round

WHAT CAN HAPPEN

By Isabel Inglis Colville

The morning was beautiful and held no hint of the sinister influence the coming hours were to exert over our affairs; so when the head of the family suggested a drive the idea was unanimously adopted.

When we started off there was a golden glow over everything, as if October, like King Midas, could turn everything she touched into gold, and we rolled happily along, seeing the golden pumpkins against the brown fields, like great gold buttons on mother earth's skirts; enjoying the red gold of the maples and the yellow gold of the alms.

Just midway between the fourth and third on the Aurora sideroad I heard my better half mutter "that's queer."

At first I couldn't drag my fascinated eyes from the faint mauish-blue haze which veiled the hills—a diaphanous scarf which softened their ruggedness. "Why are we stopping?" I asked as the slowing down process which I had vaguely sensed made itself more apparent.

"That's exactly what I'd like to know," confided my seat mate, whereupon he descended from the car, lifted its bonnet and regarded its inner workings with what I considered the eye of a pessimist.

He did this and that, but no amount of persuasion seemed to have any effect on the mule-like obstinacy of our means of conveyance.

"Nothing for it but to chance it to Aurora," he pronounced after a final bang at some vital spot. So he stood on the road and watched the world—consisting of large, expensive motor cars—go by, like the priests and levites of the parable.

Then along came a car of humbler origin, born a Ford, I think, and it received him into its hospitable arms and we were left to watch the sun as it slowly sank in a golden sea.

Cars, bicycles and pedestrians passed, but quite some time elapsed before a car, which I was sure was going to run us down, pulled up with its nose almost touching ours—our car's, you understand?—and the man of the house and a very business-like individual hopped out—the latter burying his head in our car's interior.

A car, I think, must be something like a piano, for the gentleman of the wrenches listened intently to our car's reaction to his tuning or whatever he did. Finally, he withdrew his head, wiped his hands with a finished gesture, and admitted the car "might take you to my garage in Aurora."

So we moved somewhat gingerly away and arrived at our destination not one minute too soon, for as we drew up, the car sighed, coughed, and DIED.

This time the mender of broken cars approached ours with a different technique. He applied soothing ointments, and delicate operations, and after an interval announced, "I think we've located the trouble and you will be all right."

This sounded fine and we went along Yonge street, in the swiftly descending dusk, while the great gleaming eyes of the south-bound monsters glared at us, as we sped along.

Just below Armitage friend husband said to the world in general, "I don't like this."

POINT OF VIEW

Since this war began, we have had wonderful opportunities to hear it discussed from every point of view.

Its cause, the manner in which it is being conducted, its probable length and its ultimate effect upon civilization have provided material for newscasts, speeches, sermons and abuse; from broadcasters, clergymen, soldiers, pacifists, labor leaders and politicians.

In days of old, messengers were dispatched from the scene of battle to carry news to those left behind. Newspapers, telegrams and telephones helped in the war of 1914-18, but even 20 years ago we had no idea that a time would come when in our own homes we would hear, early in the morning, what had happened in various parts of the globe through the night.

Years ago we could live quite comfortably in our own community, only touching those where friends lived occasionally, or venturing on a trip which assumed something of the nature of an adventure.

We were self-centred and a bit selfish, without realizing it, in the least. Our religion was the "faith of our fathers," our politics were without form and void, or else a dim reflection of those of the men of the family—we saw through a glass, darkly—and were content.

We couldn't go back to that state of affairs, even if we wanted to. Having ears, we have to hear, and hearing, read, mark, learn and inwardly digest the pretty tough propositions set before us.

For instance, in one day, we were treated to the following views on the war.

"This war is a righteous war—it aims to restore the right of small nations to live and grow as best suits their needs, and to overthrow wickedness in high places."

Then another voice boomed forth, "This is a war of power

"It's not stopping AGAIN," exclaimed mother, who had been a silent occupant of the back seat, up to this time.

But it WAS stopping again, and no amount of persuasion could make it change its mind.

"I'll try and get a ride to Aurora," said the driver and try he did; but everyone passed by and at last he came back, did this and knocked that and suddenly we were on our way.

Now we were on Eagle Street and almost exhaled our held breath, when, just as we got opposite a garage, the car faltered, nor would it be revived enough to cross the road.

So a bunch of friendly people from the garage came over and rolled us across and into the welcome haven, where a gentleman in leather conducted an examination, to the edification of the car's owner, myself and a small crowd of interested spectators.

For an hour we sat there, while the car was dissected and put together again.

"I'm sure you will be all right now," proclaimed the gentleman of the screwdriver, wrenches, new parts and such like.

"Let's hope so," said my better half, none too optimistically. "It does sound better," he admitted as we drove along. We had turned on to the fourth and were just drawing full breaths when the familiar slowing up began.

"Oh, dear," mourned I, "and so near home."

No amount of persuasion, encouragement, or manipulation could budge our nightmarish vehicle.

"Walk back to Mrs. McClure's and she may have some wrenches and things," I suggested—one of our troubles being that during a fixing of something at home, all tools had been taken from the car.

So back went friend husband, while mother and I watched the moon rise, and thought of home and supper and Sir Walter outside the house, while her three weeks old kitten reposed—or didn't—in-side.

Presently came the welcome sound of voices and we saw a little procession approaching armed with a lantern and other helpful apparatus.

While Mrs. McClure kept us company, Archie and the boys did this and that, but no go—we didn't stir, and off went our guardian, home for a particular kind of wrench.

So we sat another half hour, while the moon laughed at us and we laughed at ourselves.

But everything must end, and this time the wrench did the trick and bidding adieu to our benefactors we started on the last lap.

"We've made it," breathed my better half as we reached the top of the hill, and soon we were in the house, Sir Walter and her kitten reunited, in a series of purrs and infantile squeaks, and ourselves imbibing hot soup and feeling we had lived through a minor upheaval.

"I'll never feel safe to go away from houses in that car again," said mother decisively.

"That car will go to the garage and stay there till it can go to Greenland safely," answered my better half.

It went to the garage but not to Greenland and it's all right.

BY RUTH DINGMAN HEBB

"Just listen to those Crows racking over there in the trees," said Young Chips, the Chickadee, complainingly to his friend, the Ruby-crowned Kinglet. "There have been simply hundreds of them passing by these last few days."

"I heard some Geese last night after I had gone to bed," said the Kinglet. "The airways are certainly busy in October."

"Let's move over to the tree across the road," suggested Young Chips. "Then we'll be near enough to those Juncos on the ground to talk to them without shouting."

"Hello, Young Chips and Kinglet," said one of the Juncos when the two birds alighted in the other tree. "I suppose you didn't see that Hawk overhead or you wouldn't have flown across the road just then?"

"My crown, no!" exclaimed the Lord Halifax, quiet and earnest, to Winston Churchill, virile, vivid and downright, as they tell their people of their aims and achievements—and failures! To me this is the saving grace, for I think anyone who can say he has made mistakes will go far—it's the people who are always right who usually end up with a grand fiasco.

Then we listen as Herr Hitler bombards his hearers with garbled facts about the war and about other peoples. He seems to be trying to use noise to drive home his points and to drown out any doubts his hearers may have.

As M. Daladier speaks we hear the ring of the "Marseillaise" in his voice as he calls to his countrymen to "march on, march on to victory, ye sons of France."

Then one listens to President Roosevelt, Queen Wilhelmina, King Leopold, to Czechoslovak and Polish leaders all giving their points of view and indulging in wishful thinking, but apart from the pronounced objectives of Great Britain and France, none of the neutral nations have a just, strong, and lasting corner stone to lay in the peace foundation.

Hitler's government is like a boa constrictor, it wants to crush its prey, swallow it, and then lie dormant while the process of digestion goes on, to awake hungry and go after more prey.

It seems to me that what will save Great Britain is freedom of speech. Witness the criticism showered on the government over the lack of air raid warnings when the Germans raided the coast of Scotland and tried to destroy the Forth bridge; and the censure of those responsible for guarding Scapa Flow and as a terrible commentary on carelessness some place, the appalling loss of life on the "Royal Oak."

The opposition leaders and the newspapers voice the feeling of the man on the street, and as long as his voice is heard, Britain will not go far astray, for although it was Lincoln who said that government should be "of the people, by the people, for the people," (have I got that right?) it is also the aim of any democratic country, and as such, we, the people, have our say.

And I think the opposite premise will mean Germany's eventual downfall—Herr Hitler and his government will not be criticized, nor will they ever consent to mistakes—so one can only conclude that when the German people find out some of these mistakes, they will throw off the yoke of Nazism and rise a free people, ready to see their country again an inspiration to music lovers, a cradle of medicine and a charming place to travel through.

We all have points of view, and it isn't the fault of radio, speakers and newspapers if we lack variety, but living as we do in a free country we can CHOOSE our viewpoints. God give the day when ALL can do the same.

WHERE MONEY GOES

Accounts passed by the town council last week included: Elman W. Campbell, $1.35; Mrs. J. O'Brien, $2; J. E. Snow, $7.80; Robt. C. Morrison, repairs to police revolver, $3.25; Kenneth Mount, $5.75; Canadian National Railway, $18.32; Toronto General Hospital, $40; Pollock's Shoes, Ltd., $2.75; Newmarket Era, $2.60; Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, $3,750.00 (referred to clerk); J. E. Snider, $1.60; Holmkey Transport, $8.88; R. D. Manning, $2.40; J. L. Spillito, $1.00; Macnab Hardware, $14.00; Fred Newton, $5; Newmarket Motor Sales, $12.70; Clear and Hyatt, $63.30.

Successful business men keep presenting their stories to the public. They always have some new article of merchandise or some new price to tell about, and the old good service to emphasize. They keep at it and they build their businesses.

Kinglet in tones of horror.

"Where is it?"

"It's going away from us now," the Junco informed him, "but he was just over your heads when you flew. He was quite high up, though, and so I guess he didn't notice you."

"There's a Hawk everywhere you look just now," said the Chickadee, "and now that it's the last of October we may expect Butcher, the Northern Shrike, to add to our troubles."

"Oh, forget it," suggested one of the Juncos airily. "Are you folks invited to the farewell party for the Red-eyed Vireo and the Oven-bird? They're leaving for the south tomorrow."

"I'm not," said the Kinglet. "But, of course, I'm not a resident here and so I'm not very well known by some of the birds. Are you going, Chips?"

"I haven't been asked," admitted Young Chips. "I'm sure I don't know why not. I'm not a special pal of either of them, but I like them both. The Oven-bird is quite a cheery fellow, with his loud 'Teacher-teacher-teacher' call, and the Vireo is a very pleasant singer, with those warbling notes of his."

"I think Hairy Woodpecker did the inviting," said the Junco.

"Oh, well, I guess that's why I'm not asked," said the Chickadee. "I had a quarrel with him about a hole in an old tree, a few days ago, so I guess he's still mad. I wanted the hole for a winter shelter and he said it was his. We had words. Still, I'm quite disappointed at missing the party."

"Go anyway," suggested another Junco. "No, there might be unpleasantness," said the Chickadee. "Besides, I've been to a lot of social gatherings lately. Last week there was a morning party for the Catbirds and an afternoon affair for Jenny, the House Wren and her family, on the same day. Then there was a little get-together for the Scarlet Tanagers the day after."

"He'll certainly be amazed when he sees the bunch of us," Young Chips told the others eagerly. "He's rather a quiet fellow, you know, although he sings beautifully in the springtime."

"You go back and keep your eye on him," he told his son, "while I go and find the others. This is going to be a lark. We haven't had a real surprise party for ages."

PULLING POWER

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Compelling and consistent advertising to bring people to Canada's National Exhibition at Toronto and to scores of fall fairs held throughout the country has been making its appearance. Because of it and because this advertising is backed by good product giving plenty of value-for-your-money, these fairs will attract large crowds, will operate for the most part without going too deeply into the "red."

The much-ballyhooed but excellent World's Fair at New York is now running into heavy financial weather. Attendance figures are a mere fraction of the exaggerated estimates and figures sponsored by a magniloquent publicity department. Drastic steps are now being taken to pull a really great show out of its financial and economic tailspin.

One major reason for the World's Fair plight is its failure to use paid advertising to boost its show and keep the turnstiles clicking. The Fair authorities thought they could get plenty of "free" publicity—and indeed they did, more perhaps than any similar enterprise ever received.

But behind the puffs, and the columns of "releases" and press notices, there has been no well-planned, consistent advertising campaign to sell and resell the fair's merits to the tens of millions of Americans who live within a few hundred miles of the fair and whose attendance—not once but scores of times—is essential to a satisfactory gate.

Whether you merchandise a world's fair or a corner lot parking space—it pays to advertise.—A recent editorial from the Financial Post.

POLICE COURT

GETS ONE YEAR TO PAY BACK $200

After he had convicted Norman Elmer, Aurora, last week on a charge of false pretences involving a truck deal with Archie Cousins, Aurora, Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe placed Elmer on probation for one year, suspended sentence and ordered him to make restitution within one year of the $200 owing Mr. Cousins.

"Since the evidence was given last week on the Elmer case I have tried to make some restitution but this was very hard, as Elmer was in jail," stated Defence Counsel Harry Rose, Toronto. "I saw Mr. Wilson, who is Mr. Cousins' lawyer, and he is agreeable to my suggestion that Elmer be placed on probation and make restitution within that period. Elmer is a first offender, has a wife and family to keep, and will work. I think he has had a very severe lesson now."

"When such a large amount of money is involved it is unusual to suspend sentence," stated Magistrate Woodliffe. "However, the man has a clear record and has never been in trouble before, so I will adopt the suggestion of Mr. Rose. If Elmer hasn't paid the money within the year he will be brought here and sentenced on this charge."

W. C. Gullker, Cherrywood, who was last week convicted on a charge of assault against Wm. VanDyck, Kettleby, was given suspended sentence and placed on probation for one year. Gullker was also ordered to pay, within two weeks, VanDyck's medical bill amounting to $15.

"In this case it was a rather serious assault, but you apparently thought you had some justification for doing it," the magistrate told Gullker. "You have served seven days in jail now. The complainant, VanDyck, has not only suffered a great deal of pain but he has also lost money. I won't place you on probation unless you pay the medical bill within two weeks. If you don't keep the conditions in your probation bond you will be brought back here and sentenced on this charge."

Gordon McRoberts, Humber Bay, attempting to pass when the road ahead was not clear of approaching traffic, $5 and costs, charge laid by Provincial Constable Alex. Ferguson.

James Tannahill, Toronto, speeding, 60 m.p.h. on Yonge St., $5 and costs, charge laid by Constable Ferguson.

A. H. Clark, Toronto, attempting to pass, $5 and costs, charge laid by Constable Ferguson.

Howard Barnes, Toronto, speeding, $5 and costs, charge laid by Constable Ferguson.

J. C. Baker, Toronto, speeding, $5 and costs, charge laid by Constable Ferguson.

Gordon Gerrard, Toronto, speeding, 45 m.p.h. in Sharon, $5 and costs, charge laid by Constable J. Jardine, East Gwillimbury.

After hearing the evidence last week on a charge of careless driving laid against Garnet B. Grose, Whitechurch, judgment was deferred one week. Mr. Grose stated then that he did not wish to hand in his permit to the department of highways. Constable Ronald Watt testified that Mr. Grose was too nervous to drive a car. Magistrate Woodliffe stated on Tuesday that Mr. Grose has now handed in his permit and that he will be fined $5 and costs.

Last week a 17-year-old Aurora boy was sentenced to the reformatory for six months on a charge of breaking and entering an Aurora service station, and his 23-year-old brother, who was a first offender, was remanded in custody one week for sentence.

This week Defence Counsel Lorne Lee, Aurora, presented a letter from the superintendent of the factory where the older brother has been employed, stating that he is willing to take him back to work there. Mr. Lee said that he had other character evidence for the boy. The 23-year-old youth was given suspended sentence and placed on probation for one year.

"I think I indicated to you last week what I thought of your intelligence in breaking into this garage," Magistrate Woodliffe told the youth. "You of all people should have known it doesn't pay to do this sort of thing. Your younger brother has been in trouble before and on two occasions has served time in jail for the offence, so I would have expected that you would have known better. However, you have had a taste of jail and I hope it will be a lesson to you. I will give you a chance."

The two Keswick youths who last week pleaded to a charge of breaking and entering into Cameron's booth at the Jersey River and stealing a machine worth $100, which contained $60 in coins, were each given suspended sentence and placed on probation for one year.

The older boy of the pair was ordered to make restitution to the owner within two months of his share of the money taken from the machine. The share of money taken by the younger boy was returned to the court last week.

After pleading guilty to a charge of having illegal possession of liquor, Albert Skelton, Newmarket, was fined $100 and costs of $27.50, and liquor found in his house was ordered confiscated.

Crown Attorney N. L. Mathews, K. C., stated that he would withdraw the second charge of keeping liquor for sale laid against Skelton, as he had pleaded guilty to the first charge and because he was in the army.

Constable James Sloss testified that when he and three other constables entered Skelton's house on Sept. 10 they found a large quantity of beer and also eight bottles of liquor. The liquor had been purchased on his own permit and five cases of the beer had been consigned to a Newmarket man to whom the beer had not yet been delivered, the constable stated. Mr. Skelton was the agent for a Toronto brewery at the time the police searched the house, it was stated.

Convicted on a charge of having unlawful possession of liquor, Ross Pipher, Newmarket, was fined $10 and costs, and the six quarts of beer he was carrying home were ordered confiscated.

FOUR FAITHS WERE UNITED,
CHURCH BUILT

Milne, R. Fiddell, Jas. Milne, Jas. Garlick, Chas. Baker, Jos. Tuer, John Link, Chas. Peterson, Jas. Abbs, R. Fogg, local preacher and shoemaker, Sunday-school superintendent for two years.

Among the supporters of the Wesleyan church were Wm. Turner, A. J. Milne, Mrs. Terry, John W. Wright, Jacob Smith, Christopher Belfrey, J. Moore, John Batt, George Moore, H. Batt, Robt. Moore, Jos. Hollingshead, E. Dunham, Geo. Wright.

In the Christian church there were the Weddells, Jeremiah Graham, T. Doan, R. Dunham, Geo. Foster, John Cowleson, O. Ross, P. Belfrey, Squire Morton, John Fletcher, J. Fenton.

The union of these churches took place in 1853. Rev. Mr. East was the last Episcopalian minister. Rev. Mr. Keame was the last Wesleyan minister. Then came Rev. Mr. Lynch, who died in Queensville and ministers of the following names: Weelwood, Hun, Farrier, Large, Washington, Brown, Leonard, Simpson, Partridge, Frailick, Scott, MacNeil, Kempf, Lovering, Dunlop, Porter, Mann, Partridge.

The present church was built in 1859 during the ministry of Rev. Mr. Farrier. John Moore turned the first sod. W. Cain was the architect. Mr. Collingwood the mason.

Among the influential church officials of the time were Mr. Aylward, Geo. Wright, the undertaker, Jas. Cowleson, Wm. Hunt, Jas. Cunningham, Moses Loggins, Robt. Smith, John Smith, John Batt, Sr., John Winters, John Hicks, John Moore, George Holburn, James Henry, Alexander Arnold, John, Geo. and James Wright.

When the church was opened sufficient money had been gathered in to pay for it. This generosity has been characteristic of the church. The ladies' aid contributed $700 to the building fund. Mrs. George Wright was the first president and held office from 1860 to 1901. From 1901 until 1924 Mrs. Stevens (Mrs. Ardill) was the capable president. Subsequently Mrs. E. Strasser was the president.

The first organist of the new church was Miss Emma Hendy, who lived on the farm owned by Silas Sennett. R. T. Peregrine was the first choir-leader. The first marriage in the church was that of Emma Martin and Bert Cole.

In Memoriam

O'Brien—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, John H. O'Brien, who passed away October 25, 1937.

While the midnight stars are gleaming,
On a lone and silent grave,
Beneath it sleeps a dear husband and father,
The one we loved but could not save.

His weary hours, his days of pain,
His troubled nights are past,
His over patient, worn-out frame
Has found sweet rest at last.
Long days, long nights he bore
his pain,
To wait for cure, but all in vain,
Till God Himself knew what was best,
He took him home and gave him rest,
Sadly missed by wife and family.

BOTTLENECK HELD YEAR'S

HOLD YEARLY DINNER

The annual meeting of the Aurora board of trade will be held this evening at Dawson's cafe. The dinner will commence at 6.15 p.m. and after an address by Rev. Dr. E. J. Thompson the election of officers for the ensuing year will take place. A. N. Fisher is the present head, while Ross Linton is secretary.

In conversation with The Era Mr. Fisher said he regarded the work done in the proposed elimination of the Yonge St. bottleneck as the biggest effort of the past year.

"We attended many meetings in other municipalities and got the whole of Yonge St. fully organized. Unfortunately, we did not get a very warm reception from the minister of highways. However, we will carry on the fight for the elimination of this death-trap."

The board has had a good year financially with a membership of over 100.

"We always balance our budget and have a small surplus over each year," said Mr. Fisher.

MOTHER AND SON CELEBRATE BIRTHDAYS

Two birthdays were celebrated last week in the family of Charles Clubine, Wells St. On Friday, Oct. 20, Clifford Clubine had his 13th birthday and six youthful companions met at the home of his parents for the occasion. MAKE GIFT TO NURSE MISSIONARY TO CHINA

Miss Dorothy Fox, R.N., who received her commission as a missionary to China on Sunday, Oct. 15, at Aurora United church, was tendered a farewell reception on Monday evening by church officials and societies, when many friends gathered to wish her bon voyage.

Lantern slides on China were shown and after a presentation and a few short speeches a social evening followed.

Rev. Dr. E. J. Thompson introduced Miss Fox to the gathering, while Mrs. Roy Delahaye, president of the Women's Missionary Society, presented her with a bouquet of flowers and a purse of money.

"I will spend the money on text-books," said Miss Fox in reply. "I have long desired to add more nursing texts to those I already have. I cannot adequately thank the congregation and my friends for the kindnesses shown me the past few weeks. Everyone has been wonderful and the memories I carry with me I shall never forget. You have given me encouragement and strength to carry on."

Mayor J. M. Walton presented Miss Fox with a copy of the Bible, saying, "You may pass this on to other hands for use, but it is for you to remember someone in an official capacity has been interested in your work."

He then gave a brief resume of the names and places in the district from whence missionaries have gone forth from all denominations, some 12 in all entering this field according to his recollection.

"It is a credit to the rural ministers from whose efforts these lives have been consecrated," he concluded.

Rev. T. R. White also spoke briefly.

DOWN THE CENTRE

See Them Smiling

Elsewhere on this page we reproduce a picture of "Pete" Harman's pets — the leather-makers from the Collis campus. For the second straight year the Collis team have annexed the Evans trophy emblematic of supremacy in the local industrial softball league, and on both occasions it has been at the expense of the highly fancied Town team.

This year it seemed as if the tannery boys were going to lose out, for they played spotty ball in the regular schedule, and barely took the Iron Dukes in the semi-finals. But when the chips were down they clicked like a well-oiled machine after losing the first game of the finals and polished off the star-studded Closa aggregation in straight heats from then on.

A change in the battery, with Bert Kidd taking over the catching duties and Stan. Walker pitching steady ball, worked wonders, but if orchids are being handed out, Wilf. White should grab one, for time and again he gathered in sure base hits in centre field to save his team and demoralize the opposition. However, the whole team did its part and were really hot at the right time.

Next year we would like to see the winners locally tackle the Newmarket town league winners. This series would really sell to the fans of both towns. Speaking of selling recalls the fact that the paucity of the amounts collected by the passing-the-hat system is a poor reward by the spectators for a whole season's free fun. A remedy will have to be found, for the finalists were lucky, with two or three hundred attending to pay for new balls and the umpires — those who came to stay somehow forgot to pay.

Tiddits

Jim Cumming, elongated centre player of the Aurora Juniors, is keeping in shape by booting the pigskin for the Oakwood Indians in Intermediate O. R. F. U. "Gentleman Jim" is also a mean broken field runner. Jack Sinclair of Marlborough is playing fairly good hockey for the district.

There are a lot of boys, though, who have no intention of being taught by the well-known squeeze play, working out with his team, and gaining some needed conditioning. East York A. C. are at this stage of the game undecided as to whether or not they'll have a team in the local C group. Tunney's A. C. were enjoying the hockey season immensely and having plenty of fun till the pin machine broke down and spoiled everything. Bill Wilson is in northern Ontario now and will play his hockey there this winter. Ray Lloyd of the high school soccer team is about the most stylish player to kick a ball at the local school in years. Larry Molyneux has been sold down the river by Lester Patrick to the Cleveland Barons. It may be a break for the big fellow, for his new boss, Al Sutphin, is reported to be no piker with the bank-roll.

TOWN WINS FIRST OF BOX FOOTBALL SCRAPS

Monday evening the town and Fleury-Elssel hooked-up in the opening game of the local box-football loop. After 40 minutes of strenuous and fairly even play the towners were victorious 2-1.

Wilf. White scored the town's first goal, while the visitors' goal was scored by "Nibs" Salge, getting one in each half. Bolmann scored for the Dukes in the final minutes of play.

On Wednesday evening the two teams renewed their battle with the town soundly drubbing the Ironmen 4-0. White got the only score in the first half, and added a second goal in the final period. H. Fingold and Herb Holman also scored for the Towners.

Town: goal, P. Fingold; backs, H. Fingold and Holman; rover, Salge; centre, White; forwards, Knowles, Sutton, Panko, Heaney, Patrick.

Foundry: goal, Moore; backs, C. Powell and J. Powell; rover, F. Clubine; centre, C. Bellman; forwards, C. Gardner, Trivett, Atkinson, Anthony, Howard.

Referee: Walt Long.

Aurora cycling club and Slaman's met in the night-cap game on Wednesday, and despite a hard-fought battle by both teams the game ended a 1-1 draw. The shoe-men drew first blood when Bill Seaton scored on a pass from George Case in the first period. Late in the second half Jim Rade-ly in the Slaman's goal failed to clear Mickey Smith's drive, and knocked the ball into the goal to tie the score.

Short of players, Slaman's pressed several public school boys into service, and the kids gave a good account of themselves. Both teams were short on condition but showed plenty of strength.

Slaman's goal, J. Radeley; backs, W. Long and L. Holman; rover, J. Brown; forwards, G. Case, E. Bilbrough, W. Seaton, E. Long, J. McGhee, K. Southwood.

Cycling club: goal, C. Chapman; backs, M. Smith and J. Murray; rover, R. Benville; forwards, N. Foster, T. Radeley, D. Mathewson, D. McKenzie, J. Closs.

WIN L.O.B.A. EUCHE

Winners at the euche party held by Queen Mary L.O.B.A. last evening were Mrs. Frank Heaney and Mrs. Aubrey Fleury.

The Clapper Case

It has been suggested to us that we erred in not calling Aubrey "Dit" Clapper an Aurora boy. The big Boston Bruin star was born in Hastings, Ontario, and attended school here, but really broke into organized hockey with Toronto Parkdale canoe club. We believe all three centres might claim him but Hastings was the place of his birth, and he is a summer-time resident, and so is called a Hastings boy.

Undoubtedly, he learned to do his skating and acquired his early ice fundamentals here, but it was in Toronto that he really got his first big test and the coaching that ultimately led him to the big-time. The big fellow is a real credit to hockey wherever he may be billed as hailing from.

Aurora can take some pride in the fact that it was partly here he got his start. Equally at home on the forward line or the defence, "Dit" is destined to rank with the hockey greats of all time. This year, with Eddie Shore absent most of the time, the brunt of the rallying will be borne on his capable shoulders.

Now's the Time

This year, as in previous years, emphasizes the lack of local boys with the stuff necessary to compete successfully in championship hockey. Hence it is that boys from neighboring centres must be called to the rescue. The fault lies, we believe, in the fact that there is no definite or planned system of developing players locally. We believe that a midget or bantam league of four or five teams should be formed this year with a weather-eye cocked to the future.

Such a league would cost little to operate, and would provide plenty of fun for all, as well as paying off heavily in dividends in future years. The league should be definitely kept going from year to year and changes in status, etc., could keep pace. With men like Jimmy Walker, Bert Tunney, Jack Offord, Frank Underhill, and Lorne Cousins around, to name only a few, we have no hesitation in saying that such a league can and would function on all fours.

How about it, gents? There's a real proposition for the service club or board of trade to grapple with.

There's nothing more exciting than to see a group of home-brews make good but lately they haven't done right. Thoroughness and dependability were two of his great characteristics.

He was a staunch Protestant, being a member of Aurora Baptist church, where he was a regular attendant. For many years he was active in church activities and was for some years a deacon.

Four activities permeated his whole career, the Orange order, the Sons of England, the Aurora Five Brigade and the 12th York Rangers.

It was in 1887 that he joined the Orange order at King. W. H. Taylor, a life-long friend, was deputy-master of the Lodge. Later in the year United Empire Lodge was formed at Aurora in 1890, and Mr. Harman was elected its first master.

Mr. Harman was affiliated with the local brethren. In 1905 he was worshipful master. Following his retirement from the chair he served as tyler for over 30 years. He was also a member of the Royal Searlet Chapter of East Gwillimbury.

He was one of the early founders of the Sons of England lodge, being a member for 50 years and a past president, as well as serving in various other offices.

He was an active fireman for 35 years under seven different chiefs. During that period of time he was constantly on call and saw the transition from the old hand-pump equipment to the present streamlined outfit under Chief Rowe.

He was buried in the uniform of the brigade which he served faithfully and well.

For 23 years he was a member of the 12th York Rangers, being color sergeant on his retirement. Age alone prevented him from serving overseas during the Great War.

In politics he was a life-long Conservative, refraining from accepting office but quietly and effectively working for the party in (Page 8, Col. 5)

"NAT" HARMAN DIES NEAR 75

WAS FAITHFUL MEMBER OF
LODGES AND FIRE BRIGADE

There passed away early Monday morning one of Aurora's best known personages, Nathaniel Harman, George St. Mr. Harman had been ill for about a week and died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Frank Grainger, Mark Ave.

"Nat," as he was familiarly called, was in his 75th year and had lived in Aurora for over 50 years, occupying his present premises 35 years. He was born at King, Ont., in 1864, the fifth child of Peter Harman and Jane Long, both Canadian born of early pioneer stock. Ning children in all were born to this family. Four brothers and two sisters survive Nathaniel.

His first employment was at the mill at Mount Mellick, then he came to Aurora to work at Daville's tannery, returning a few years later to King to enter the employment of the Davis tannery. He remained in the latter's employment until fire destroyed the tannery.

He then came to Aurora and worked for J. Fleury and Son. He remained continuously in their employ for 34 years, retiring from service some years ago. He always took particular pains to see that the work entrusted to him was done right. Thoroughness and dependability were two of his great characteristics.

He was a staunch Protestant, being a member of Aurora Baptist church, where he was a regular attendant. For many years he was active in church activities and was for some years a deacon.

THEY'RE PLENTY GOOD, BUT NOT GOOD ENOUGH, HOLDING MARKHAM PROVES PLENTY TOUGH

On Friday last the local high school soccer team visited Markham for the first of a home-and-home series between the two schools. Although outplaying the Markham boys for the greater part of the game the double blue 11 had to be content with a 1-1 tie.

In the first half, despite the fact that they easily had five shots on goal to the home team's one, the Aurora boys were kept off the score sheet by the remarkable goal-tending of Newnham between the Markham posts. Late in the period, as a result of some poor clearing by the fullbacks, Featherstone drove the ball past Sheridan, who had no chance on the shot.

After a pep talk by Coach Norm. Johnson, the Aurora boys stormed the Markham citadel from the whistle in the second half. Finally after the whole forward line had missed some glorious opportunities through over-anxiousness, Jennings got the equalizer with a blazing drive from the right wing. Newnham again came to his team's rescue and managed to hold off the driving finish of the Aurorans.

On Friday next Markham will visit Aurora for the return game scheduled to start at 4 p.m. P. Hughey and R. Lloyd, on the half-line, and Jennings and Kyle looked best for the local boys, while Newnham, Tapscott and Featherstone were prominent for the home team.

Aurora: goal, E. Sheridan; backs, H. Fingold and N. Kerr; halves, P. Hughey, R. Lloyd, J. Hughey; centre, H. Folliott; insides, B. Davis and D. Wilcox; outsiders, E. Jennings and D. Kyle.

Markham: goal, Newnham; backs, Steele and Daniels; halves, Thomson, Bolton, Connon; centre, Tapscott; insides, Featherstone and Campbell; outsiders, Tunney and Annis.

Referee: Mr. Thom, Markham.

TELLS OF SACRIFICES MADE IN ENGLAND

The Misses Carol and Valencia McNaught, who reside with their aunt, Mrs. John Seath, Harrison Ave., have recently received a most interesting letter from their mother, Mrs. Millen, wife of Dr. Millen, who is residing in the city of Sheffield in the heart of England's great industrial area.

Vividly describing war-time England, Mrs. Millen says in part: "I've also been very busy making black curtains and other things preparing in case of air raids. The whole city is pitch-dark at night and anyone who shows a gleam of light is liable to be fined."

"Whenever we go out we have to carry gas-masks with us, but we don't go out very much—particularly at night, because it's too dark to find one's way about and too difficult to get around. Gasoline is rationed and the tram and bus services curtailed to economize on fuel. In fact, it seems as though there are restrictions every way one turns—gas and coal are already rationed and a lot of food things soon will be."

"Everyone hates all these things, but we are glad to suffer them in order to help to win the war for liberty. We all know that if the Nazis won we would have no liberty at all and probably much loss of food even then we shall have by rations."

"It is a great help to know that Canada is doing so much to assist England. Every little thing that anyone can do to help will be necessary. The soldiers will need lots and lots of woolen socks, scarves and balaclava caps and poor children from the city slums who have moved to safer places need clothes and blankets."

Rev. T. R. White, interviewed by The Era, agreed with Dr. Thompson that the newspapers were making too much fuss about the matter and felt that there must be some misunderstanding.

"I know I speak for 80 per cent of the clergy when I say we are wholeheartedly behind our leaders," Mr. White said. "No one wants war but we have had this one forced upon us. Mr. Chamberlain went far beyond any parallel in history to keep peace but we are united behind him. Mr. King is a pacifist by nature but he is certainly doing his best to achieve our ends."

"I know many of the men said to be present at the meeting and there are one or two radicals among them. They are the

On Wednesday afternoon the Eversley W. M. S. held its rally in Eversley Presbyterian church. There were between 40 and 50 ladies present. There was a good load from Beza auxiliary.

Misses Jessie Gellatly and Annie Ferguson sang sweetly a duet with Ethel Ferguson at the organ. Miss Marie Bell recited in her own beautiful manner.

VICTORIA SQUARE

SUPPER AT 15 CENTS IS HAPPIEST OF EVENTS

The Women's Association of the United church held a successful 15-cent supper in the church basement on Wednesday evening of last week. The program was in the form of a word description of the sinking of the Athenia by one of the rescued passengers.

Delightful anniversary services were held in the Hedford church both morning and evening on Sunday, when Rev. Wesley Hunslett from the Fred Victor Mission, Toronto, was the guest speaker. The Square choir led in the worship of praise at the morning service and Richmond Hill in the evening.

A good crowd was on hand on Sunday night at the Y. P. U. meeting and enjoyed the splendid program prepared by the Christian culture convener, Mabel Caseley. A number of visitors were present from Agincourt, Milliken, Newmarket, Aurora and Gormley.

Kenneth Partridge, B. A., of Brampton, who represented the Toronto conference of the United church at the Amsterdam conference last summer, was the guest speaker. His illustrated travel talk of the trip there, as well as a report of the conference itself, was most thrilling.

Verna and Joe Cherry of Gormley sang a beautiful duet, "Blessed Hiding Place," and Miss Cherry also sang "The Ninety and Nine," in her usual pleasing manner.

O'Connor's Victory Over Rowland Is High Spot With Fans

yours truly called the third even. Early in the fourth Dodge cornered Tommy on the ropes and lashed out with a left that connected on Burke's jaw and followed through with a right smash to the stomach. From where I sat I could see Tommy sag. He was never the same after, and was real shaky by the end of the round.

Throughout the fifth, Burke bicycled away from the dynamite that had hit him so hard and often in the previous round. Certainly no one can blame him for that. The kid fought a good fight but I really don't think Dodge deserved worse than a draw. This decision really looked like the home-town variety. The fans certainly demonstrated their disgust.

Prelims
One other bout failed to go the limit when Ted Swain pounded a win out over George Wright in two rounds. Swain looked to be the winner all the way. However, both these lads gave the crowd plenty of action. Wright quit in the second when he just couldn't take the pounding that Swain was giving his stomach.

In the 112-pound class Charlie Walsh copped an easy decision over Gordon Edwards, clearly demonstrating why he is the city champion at the weight. Little Joe Ferrier, city champ at 75 pounds, pulled the iron-man stunt by fighting twice on the same card, defeating Polly Palmateer, of town, in the first bout and drawing with Howard Carr, a snappy little scrapper of Toronto, in an added attraction.

Ferrier is one of the sweetest little gloves that this scribe has laid his eyes on for a long while, a crowd pleaser every minute. He is a clever little boxer.

Lorne Ferguson of Barrie again registered a win in the local ring, defeating Bill Adams (no relation) in five rounds. Adams, a southpaw, gave Fergie plenty of trouble and only the Barrie boy's aggressiveness gained him the nod. They should be re-matched.

In the fourth bout of the evening Pete Regina huffed and puffed a decision out over Eddie Bovair, the tannery tiger. No doubt Pete won on his leading as he did practically all of it. In the second Regina had Eddie well on the road to Brampton but the referee stepped in and parted them, so Eddie got a breather. The third was a disastrous round for Eddie when he took the count of nine and came up as fresh as a daisy, but with a slightly red nose.

In the fourth and fifth Bovair seemed to be content to defend himself. Really, this scrap was one of the most entertaining bouts I have seen in many a year.

Mrs. B. Maw spent Sunday in the city.

Mr. Caldwell Brown dropped off here on Monday to spend a couple of days with his parents. A milking machine that has been included in the hydro exhibit at several fall fairs, was on exhibition at the works of Messrs. Davis and Rutledge last Saturday.

The G. T. R. have just completed a cement bridge over the stream north of the tannery, which makes a permanent job and is very creditable.

Mr. R. W. Jones has the contract for painting and decorating the new post office and has commenced the job.

St. Michael's juniors came up from Toronto on Wednesday afternoon and played a game of football against Pickering College with the result of 23-8 in favor of the college team.

Fire broke out in the residence occupied by David L. Lepard, Botsford St., on Wednesday evening, completely destroying the building owned by Chas. McCauley.

Mrs. Gallagher, who has been rested for the count of eight in the second, but suffered little damage.

In the five-round eye-opener young Lowell Palmateer was crowded out by Joe Ferrier, the 75-pound city champ. The bright little Italian had too much experience for Palmateer.

Lorne Ferguson, the 145-pound Barrie boxer, who increases his following every time out, decided to fight Adams, Central Y M. C. A. boxer. 'Fergie' did practically all the leading and had the fight his own way.

Two Central mitt men, George Wright, the Y. M. C. A. champ, and Ted Swain, showed the fans a neat exhibition of boxing. Swain knocked the wind out of Wright in the second round, gaining a T. K. O. Charlie Walsh decided Gordon Edmunds in a colorless affair, while Joe Ferrier drew with Howard Carr in an added attraction 75-pound bout.

PEPPER AND SALT

One organization unlikely to spring up in the near future will be the "Amalgamated Association of Boxers Who Have Stayed the Limit Against One Johnny O'Connor." This same aforesaid gentleman of the ring will insure the "unlikelihood" of such an arrangement.

In Thursday's headliner O'Connor took a minute to smash Jack Rowland down to his own size and from then on it was plain suicide for the Central Y.M.C.A. boy to continue. Ross Smart stopped the bout after Rowland had kissed the canvas the third time. The elements of surprise and power combined in this victory. Rowland just couldn't get set. O'Connor's strategy was the right thing at the right time.

If Eddie Bovair had had the boxing skill to match his courage he would have lambasted the Regina dead-beat in no time. Eddie got and deserved the main round of applause for his stand. He didn't mind leading, even though it was the unwise thing to do. Besides that he packed another couple sections of timber, with cash customers.

Four eight-man rugby squads have been selected from the pig-skin timber at the high school. Captains chosen were Howard Hamilton, Bill Jelley, Jack Luck and 'Cork' Travis. Coaches Westbrook, Mungovan and Graham expect to have eight-man games every Monday, Wednesday and Friday. On Tuesdays and Thursdays the two regular 12-man teams will engage each other. Sandwiched in there some place will be a couple of games with Pickering, St. Andrew's and perhaps Earl Haig, if the boys can forget last year's debacle with the Haig.

With almost every red-blooded student learning the pig-skin trade this year, the local collegiate should have a championship senior squad next semester. Incidentally, this eight-man arrangement is a slight enlargement of the six men in a team idea. The only change is the addition of two men on the line.

On Wednesday of last week, Geo. West hired a rig from Somerville's livery to go to Schomberg fair, and was to return the following day, but a telegram was received instead informing Mr. Somerville that the rig was smashed, the result of a run-away. Mr. West was not injured.

Mr. John Sowerby has built a little room on to his store at Belhaven and it will be used as a post office.

Mr. J. E. Hollingshead was sufficiently recovered from his illness to return to his duties as teacher at the high school.

T. H. Brunton was nominated to the public school board to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of the late Dr. Bentley.

About half-past five yesterday morning the Grand Trunk Railway Co. suffered another loss at Holland Landing station when a switch had been left open and the train ran off the track, twisting the rails and about a dozen empty cars into all shapes. No persons were injured.

EXTRAS from the fite front.

Kutest thing about the fights; little Joe Ferrier, Central Y's T. N. T. baby.

Vunniest thing about the fights; the expression on Eddie's face when he came up on the count of nine.

I don't blame Bovair for staying away from Regina, that guy can make Dracula and Frankenstein look like rank amateurs when it comes to contortioning his pan.

Bovair's "board-cracker" punch never got functioning last Thursday night, altho' I understand he did it really rolling that morning.

He did attempt the "bolo" punch a couple of times, once nearly throwing himself out of the ring trying to get it away.

However, give Eddie all the credit in the world. This time he stayed the limit and, as he told me, "he didn't hurt me at all."

The decision in the Dodge-Burke bout kinda took some of the cream off the show. Dodge is popular in this town, so is Tommy, but the scrap was clearly in Dodge's favor at the last and I think both boys would have been satisfied with a draw, so would the fans.

In this bout the fans didn't know that Burke was fouled twice in the third, slowing him up enough that Dodge nailed him in the last two plenty.

Now that we are going to have a junior "C" squad of puckers in this burg we will have to get out and boost the lads with everything we have.

There is no doubt that material abounds in the town and the surrounding territory, so we should have a team worth cheering.

With Newmarket out of the intermediate picture, Sutton Greenshirts should boast their strongest line-up in many a year, with such stalwarts as Harvey Gibney, Brammer and a host of others from this town to pick from.

So from the situation right now it looks like Newmarket Redmen for the "C" title and Sutton for the intermediate "B" crown, we hope, we hope.

Along the grapevine . . . We notice Larry Molyneux has been sold to the Cleveland Barons of the international loop . . . He will likely go places now that he has got rid of Papa Patrick's apron-strings . . . The Indian sign was always up on Moly when he was with the Rangers, he wasn't nice enough to Lester . . . On that team you either have to be a relative or a yes-man to get any place . . . After all Moly wasn't picked on several all-star teams over the line for nothing . . . Yet Patrick kept his own son in preference to Moly.

By the looks of things the situation your scribe outlined last week is going to materialize, with Aurora and Richmond Hill both entering teams in Junior "C" series . . . Shades of the Metropolitan loop when everybody fought from the opening bell . . . The high school kids celebrated last Friday evening with their Eckhardt Cup victory dance . . . Friday (he of the keen eyes) says that there never has been a crowd on the school floor like the crowd last week-end.

Teams have been formed to play eight man rugby at the school . . . This game should be popular as it cuts down the expenses plenty . . . However, they still have two 12 squads that are taking on the more experienced schools in this district . . . Last Thursday when Burke won the decision from Dodge, two boys who came to school here from Toronto gave me the old yelp . . . Well, I wish they and some of you fans could have seen the decision that was stolen from Tommy in the Queen City last winter when he fought Al Grace . . . He hit Grace with everything but the ring-posts but Al was staggering around enough that the judges gave him the nod . . . When talking about decisions, boys, please don't give me that Toronto taste in my mouth . . . Yours till we have perfect decisions (up my sleeve I'm laughing).

The publication of the 1939 edition of the Canada Year Book, published by authorization of the Hon. W. D. Euler, minister of trade and commerce, is announced by the dominion bureau of statistics. The Canada Year Book is the official statistical annual of the country and contains a thoroughly up-to-date account of the natural resources of the dominion and their development, the history of the country, its institutions, its demography, the different branches of production, trade, transportation, finance, education, etc. — in brief, a comprehensive study within the limits of a single volume of the social and economic condition of the dominion. This new edition has been thoroughly revised throughout and includes in all its chapters the latest information available up to the date of going to press.

The 1939 Canada Year Book extends to over 1,200 pages, dealing with all phases of the national life and more especially with those susceptible of statistical measurement. A statistical summary of the progress of Canada is included in the introductory matter. This gives a picture in figures of the remarkable progress which the country has made since the first census of the dominion was taken in 1871, 68 years ago.

Attention is called to some of the more important features of the present volume. A special article on "Noxious Forest Insects and Their Control," prepared by J. J. de Grysse, Ph. Cand. (Lov.), chief, forest insect investigations, department of agriculture, pp. 254-263, is an added feature of Chapter IX — Forestry. T. W. Grindley, Ph. D., secretary, the Canadian Wheat Board, Winnipeg, has contributed an article on the "Origin, Development, and Operations of the Canadian Wheat Board," which appears at pp. 569-580. An extended article on the "Development of the Press in Canada," together with statistics for all the daily and the principal weekly newspapers and magazines, supplements Chapter XVIII where it appears at pp. 737-773.

Persons requiring the Year Book may obtain it from the King's Printer, Ottawa, as long as the supply lasts, at the price of $1.50, which covers merely the cost of paper, printing and binding. By a special concession, a limited number of paper-bound copies have been set aside for ministers of religion, bona fide students and school teachers, who may obtain copies at the nominal price of 50 cents each.

Privileged

"What are you children playing?" asked mother.
"We're playing at church," replied Jackie.
"How nice," said mother. "But worshippers shouldn't whisper in church."
"We know that, mother," said Jackie, "but we're in the choir."

"I place my advertising with you because I know exactly what I am getting for my money. No, I don't mean how large a space for how much money. I do know that, but that is less important. Columns and inches are the width and depth of my advertising. I am more interested in the thickness. I mean the circulation, of course."

"I appreciate The Era's practice of giving detailed information about the number of copies printed, the number of copies going to paid subscribers, the number of copies going to outside subscribers in whom I am not interested, and occasional break-downs showing how many copies go to the various post offices and rural routes."

"Those are the facts which I want when I buy advertising. I want to know where my advertising is going, and I want to know if the recipient has invited the advertising medium into his home and welcomes it. Of course I believe in advertising, but I believe in good advertising and I must know what I am getting. I spend a lot of time preparing and thinking about my advertising, because I realize salesmanship is a fundamental part of my business."

WAS PROMINENT IN

SIMPLER DIET

cessed and manufactured foods purchased by the average town or city shopper, she said.

For nutrition there is nothing better than the protective foods such as milk, fruits, vegetables, eggs, cheese, and whole-grained cereals.

So long as there is a good variety diet with plenty to eat of well-cooked food, flavored tastily and served attractively, the normal healthy person need have no worries about either vitamins or calories.

According to Miss Stewart, there are six rules of nutrition. If these rules are followed daily in the foods served they will give health and keep health.

For good health needs, the daily diet should be sure to contain:

(1) One quart of milk a day for the growing child and at least one cup of milk for each adult. (Part of this milk should be used in puddings and in the cooking.) Cheese may substitute in part for this milk, if the child is not over-fond of milk.

(2) Plenty of vegetables and fruits of various kinds, one raw vegetable such as cabbage, lettuce and carrots. Potatoes, one or two other cooked or canned vegetables. Fresh, dried or canned fruits. Citrus fruits and tomatoes should be served several times a week.

(3) A whole egg or an egg yolk a day for each child and several eggs a week for the adult.

(4) Enough butter and other fats, sweets, breads, cereals (whole-grained when possible) to supply the needed energy to do the day's work.

(5) A supply of vitamin "D" from sunlight, real or artificial; from cod liver oil, or a concentrated form of vitamin "D," or from irradiated foods (eating a sunbeam in food).

(6) Plenty of water—6 or 8 glasses daily.

When fruits and vegetables are picked fresh and used fresh they contain great quantities of minerals, she stated. During the storing of vegetables the mineral content is gradually lost.

Vegetables should never be cooked in a large quantity of water, as the mineral matter is dissolved in the water and usually is drained off down the sink.

It is a splendid practice to save all the water drained off vegetables. Chill this, flavor it and color it attractively with vegetable coloring and serve as an appetizer before meals. In this way the minerals are taken into the body.

As a rule it is not wise to tell the members of the family that they are getting vegetable mineral in their attractive drink. This might spoil the pleasure of the draught.

Many menus for all the meals of the day were distributed as well as a number of splendid recipes.

A meal planning guide with table of contents was given each lady present. This should be of special value to the home-makers.

PICKERING TAKES

were two games played at the college. In the morning the seniors met their traditional rivals, St. Michael's College, from Toronto, and led 6-1 for three and a half quarters. St. Mike's, however, threw all caution to the winds, threw forward pass after forward pass and tied the score with a major in the dying minutes of a very exciting game.

In the afternoon, the Grove school from Lakefield lost to the juniors an 11-0 score. Apple, Bamford and Charles Harvey were the best for the Pickering team.

Next week the seniors play Brampton and Upper Canada College. Both of these games should be real hum-dingers and the college will be striving to keep their record intact. The juniors have five more games to play, with St. Andrew's, U.T.S., the Grove school, Forest Hill Village and Newmarket.

BIBLE CALLED

graphing and numbering, and the faulty divisioning of chapters, and the setting of poems as prose, which remains the preferred Bible—the best-selling Bible.

Preachers and teachers are trying to help us read the Bible more intelligently—with a sounder understanding of its various books. Yet I wonder if there is any spiritual profit in reading the Bible with a highly-informed understanding of it regarded as history, as literature. Thus, will it help one spiritually to know that Malachi is an anonymous book of prophetic utterances, dating from the building of the temple (516 B.C.) and before 444 B.C.; that the prophet denounces insincere worship, regards divorce with abhorrence, announces the approach of the day of judgment, emphasizes the necessity of lithes and offerings; and prophesies prosperity for the faithful? Or that Hosea was an eighth century prophet who emphasized the love and compassion of Jehovah and the personal relationship between Jehovah and Israel? I grant readily that preachers and teachers should know everything possible about the Bible; and I should welcome a short introduction to each book of the Bible to inform me about it in certain ways, so that I could understand it better; but it is the SPIRITUAL content which is of supreme importance to the world.

Viewed as literature, the Bible is magnificent—meaning the King James version, but emphasizing the literary aspect and value of the Bible is misplaced and wrong emphasis so far as the man in the street—or in the trenches—is concerned.

I confess that I was much disturbed when I read in a book by an eminent literary man, Henry Seidel Canby, these words: "The Bible is dying. I do not mean theology, nor its historical spiritual content. I do not mean that its moral values have declined, nor that as great literature it is one whit less than our ancestors believed it to be. But all qualifications aside, the English Bible, and specifically the King James version, is losing, or has already lost, a power over the imagination almost unexampled in history."

It was couched in a prose so rich with the genius of a great language was so invariably read with reverence, love or fear, that there is perhaps no equivalent instance of the style and substance of a single book influencing, and sometimes dominating, the mold of thought and form of expression of a whole people. The attitude of reverence for the Bible is gone, and what is more important, the wide and continual and often exclusive reading of the Bible is gone. The Word will always have power, but the power of a classic, not of a scripture. The Bible and Biblical English will stay, will stir our emotions, but the Word as an influence of privileged might and universal acceptance is dying; its moral dominion is gone."

I have been reading another book about the Bible—"The Literature of the Bible," by Wilbur Owen Sypherd, professor of English in the University of Delaware—a truly excellent book about the Bible and its books, yet a book which does not pretend to deal with the spiritual essence or influence or teachings of the Bible. It is a study of the Bible regarded as literature, yet it does contain a quotation from the writings of Dean George Hodges which I want to pass on to my readers. This extract relates to the "inspiration" of the Bible: were the writers of the books of the Bible "inspired by God?"

"This vital inspiration," says Dean Hodges, "is not peculiar to religion. Neither is it essentially different in religion from what it is in other fields of life. People used to ask, when this doctrine was debated, how the inspiration of Isaiah differed from the inspiration of Shakespeare, or of St. Augustine. There was never any very satisfactory answer. It was like asking how the genius of the one differed from the genius of the others. The 'Spirit of God,' as it says in Old Testament, was upon them all; also upon Michael Angelo and Raphael, upon Copernicus and Newton, upon Washington and Lincoln. Each of these men was so uncommonly filled with power, or with wisdom, or with insight, or with the knowledge of the truth, that he perceived, and his neighbors perceived also, that he was moved of God. That seemed the most direct and simple explanation."

"The divine impulse and the divine guidance did not relieve them from the necessity of work; neither did it insure them against making mistakes; neither did it obliterate their individuality; rather it emphasized it. What it did was so to vitalize them, so to enrich and strengthen their souls, that they were able to do great deeds and to think great thoughts. These men, whether they wrote the books of the Bible, or built character, or ruled states, or made any other contribution to the progress of the world, were inspired of God."

There remain many Christians who insist that the very words of the King James version of the Bible are God-inspired. I wonder what these Christians have to say about the differing words of the translations from the original writings of Caedmon, Wycliffe, Tyndal, Coverdale, and of the men who in this present century have translated the Bible from original documents—Richard G. Moulton, J. M. Powis Smith, Edgar J. Goodspeed, and James Moffatt, also of the men who produced the "revised version" of the Bible in the 80's of the last century. And what have they to say about the textual inspiration of the Bibles as used in France, Germany, Spain and Italy, and in the Scandinavian countries?

I do not wish to be misunderstood. I am not trying to discredit the Bible. On the contrary, I believe that the Bible is the word of God, that it remains the supreme book in all the world, that it more than any other book, reveals God to man and His will concerning man. I want to see the Bible exalted, to see its old-time influence restored and widened; and so I like that book written in the 90's of last century by Dr. Henry Van Dyke, famous American preacher and author, entitled, "The Gospel for an Age of Doubt."

The contents of this book are Dr. Van Dyke's lectures on preaching delivered before the divinity students of Yale University. In his preface to his book Dr. Van Dyke says: "The audience in the Yale chapel appealed to me less as students of theology than as young men with a life to live and a work to do in the modern world in the present age. Around them I felt the pressure of those great mysterious forces which are silently changing the current of human thought and the face of human society. I wanted to show that there is a message in religion especially fitted to meet the needs of our times. There is a newness in the old gospel which shines out like a sunrise upon the darkness and despondency that overshadows so much of modern life. This aspect of Christianity centres in the person of Jesus Christ as the human life of God."

I conclude this contribution to The Era with these words taken from the last chapter of a book with title, "Biography of the Bible," by Ernest Sutherland Bates: "After periods of madness come periods of sanity. How much of what now exists must quickly perish no one can foresee, but of one thing we may be sure: if only shards and broken pieces of our civilization should remain, among them would still be found the Bible, whole and uninjured. The book that outlived the Roman Empire will outlive any distraction that impends. No nation has so assured a future, as none had so great a past. And when in the far distant future humanity itself shall perish, it may well be that it will leave behind no monument any nobler than the Bible."

Alderman Anderson represented the city of Oshawa, while representatives were present from each fraternal society.

TOWN CAN'T MAKE
PATRIOTIC GRANTS

Special to Weeklies

A summary of special war-time legislation passed at the recent session of the Ontario legislature is made available herewith by Hon. Eric Cross, minister of municipal affairs and public welfare.

"Realizing that some confusion might exist in the minds of municipal officers concerning new legislation affecting municipal bodies, I have had officials of my department prepare a special bulletin incorporating the salient features of the new legislation," Mr. Cross observed. "Details, of course, of the new legislation are omitted, and persons interested are advised to study the statutes of this special session as soon as they are obtainable."

"An important change is the legislation respecting municipal grants for patriotic purposes. Insofar as municipalities in counties are concerned, all patriotic grants are to be made by the respective county councils, subject to the approval of the department of municipal affairs and the organization of resources committee."

Municipal Financing
A new sub-section of the Municipal Act, empowers all municipalities to issue "callable" debentures. The new enactment permits municipalities which incorporate this feature in future debenture issues, to redeem all or a portion of these debentures at their own option before maturity, regardless of the length of the debenture term. The department foresees higher interest rates for municipal debentures and will permit new issues to be redeemed at a later time when the rate is lower than that prevailing during war time.

Patriotic Grants
Amendments to the Municipal Act restrict the power to make grants for patriotic purposes to counties, cities and incorporated towns in organized territory, and to local municipalities in unorganized territory.

(This would mean that towns in counties, such as Newmarket and Aurora, cannot make patriotic grants.)

Such grants must first be approved by the department of municipal affairs and by the new organization of resources committee, and assistance to patriotic organizations is limited only to those registered with the secretary of state, Ottawa, under the War Charities Act, 1939, (Canada), and to rifle associations and military bands. With such approval all municipalities are empowered to supplement the pay, when on active service, of municipal and local board employees who enlist.

A further amendment specifies that all borrowing for patriotic purposes must be current borrowing, and that no debentures are to be issued on this account. The assent of the electors is not required for the incurring of such a debt for a patriotic purpose where estimates do not provide for such an expenditure.

Fixed assessments and partial or total exemptions are inoperative as concerns levies for patriotic purposes, except where expressly mentioned in section 4 of the Assessment Act, and sub-section 3 of section 40 of the Assessment Act. Such levies must be made upon the full value of all rateable property, with the above exceptions.

Organization of Resources

By the Organization of Resources Act, 1939, a provincial committee, consisting of the lieutenant-governor, the prime minister, the leader of the opposition, and such other persons as the lieutenant-governor-in-council may appoint, is established to aid in the organization of all this province's resources for the successful prosecution of the war.

Police

Under a new section of the Constables Act, county judges and magistrates are empowered to appoint special constables. This became effective Sept. 1, 1939.

Public Meetings

Under the Public Meetings and Processions Act, 1939, public meetings and processions are forbidden unless authorized by permit issued by the board of commissioners of police, or where no such board exists, by the municipal council. Religious meetings and processions are exempt from the act, which becomes effective upon proclamation.

tion of the lieutenant-governor.

Public Works

Under the Public Works Protection Act, 1939, the head or deputy constable, or the chief constable, is empowered to appoint guards to protect public property in the municipality. The act provides penalties for failure of a guard to carry out his duties properly and further provides that such guards have the power of a peace officer, in that they may require a person who enters a public work to identify himself, state his purpose, and may refuse and prevent such entry, together with power to search persons and vehicles without warrant and to arrest persons without warrant.

Utilities

The Power Control Act, 1939, gives the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission wide authority to control the generation, transmission, distribution, supply and use of electrical and other kinds of power in Ontario.

Vacant Land

Amendments to the Vacant Land Cultivation Act extend to the council of every township the power now possessed by councils of cities, towns, and villages, to grant permits to any person for the cultivation of vacant land in the municipality, and empowers the director of unemployment relief to grant permits under the act.
